Walt Disney

The creator of Mickey mouse and Donald duck was Walt Disney. Walt Disney made many cartoon characters famous internationally. He was born in 1901 in Chicago, USA. His full name was Walter Elias Disney. His mother was a school teacher and his father was a carpenter. Disney showed great interest and talent in drawing and painting.

As a youngster, Disney would often sell drawings to neighbours to make extra money. Disney's family soon moved to Kansas city, Missouri. There ,he took up the job of a newspaper boy, distributing newspaper along a particular route. Disney had to help his father as they did not have a lot of money. It was not an easy job but it taught him discipline. Around this time, he also took lessons in cartooning.

His family went back to Chicago in 1917. At school, Disney successfully photographed and sketched for the school paper. He knew he wanted to become a newspaper cartoonist when he grew up.

The first world war was on at that time. So, he worked as an ambulance driver for the American red cross. It is interesting to note that the ambulance was covered from end to end, not with stock camouflage, but with Disney cartoons!

Their first animated serial was called Laugh-O-grams. The most famous character, Mickey Mouse, was created in 1927. It was about this time that sound was added to movies. With the addition of sound to animated cartoons, Mickey Mouse shot to fame.

Soon Mickey Mouse became a friend with, Minnie Mouse. They were soon joined by other animals-Donald duck , Goofy and Pluto. Flowers and trees (1932) brought in colours . With snow white and the seven Dwarfs(1937),the world got its feature length cartoon film. During the next five years, Walt Disney Studios completed others full length animated classics such as Pinocchio, Fantasia Dumbo and Bambi.
