COORDINATOR'S DESK

“...focus on the journey, not the destination. Joy is found not in finishing an activity, but in doing it...”

Learning is a whole-life process. Every child should be given the opportunity to experience the very best possible start to his education.

Learning at DPSI is based on the fundamental principles of life: teaching every individual the values of moral behaviour and responsibility. The students, here, get a life-long knowledge. The seeds of truthfulness, courage and selfless attitude are sown into them.

We, everyday, enter the school with a simple yet impressive perspective of teaching our students something new and inspiring.

I would like to end with the words of Walter Elias Disney.....

“Our greatest natural resource is the minds of our children.”

CLASS VI

An activity on “To draw a perpendicular to a line from a given point.” was conducted in class by using paper cutting and pasting method. This activity reinforced their mathematical concepts in a fun and interactive way. In this way the concept of a perpendicular on a line became much clear, simple and interesting for them. The aim of the activity was to test the understanding of students in the concept of perpendicular and parallel lines. Students were made to verify the drawn perpendicular line with the help of a protactor. A pattern of drawing a perpendicular line is generated by the help of paper cutting and then pasted on the paper. By this way the perpendicular lines were obtained. Overall, it was a wonderful learning experience for the students.

CLASS VII

An activity on “exterior angle” was conducted in class by using paper cutting and folding. This activity reinforced their mathematical concepts in a fun and interactive way. In this way the concept of exterior angle became much clear, simple and interesting for them.

The aim of the activity was to test the understanding of students in the concept of exterior angle. Students were instructed to make different types of exterior angle in triangles. The different types of exterior angles in triangles were made by using paper cutting and folding method and then pasted in the manual. Overall, it was a wonderful learning experience for the students.

CLASS VIII

Topics covered:

Sum of all exterior angles of a polygon 360 degree An activity on “exterior angles” was conducted in class by using paper cutting and folding method. This activity reinforced their mathematical concepts in a fun and interactive way. In this way the concept of exterior angle became much clear, simple and interesting for them.

The aim of the activity was to test the understanding of students in the concept of exterior angles. Students were instructed to make different types of exterior angle in triangles, quadrilateral etc. The different types of exterior angles in triangles were made by using paper cutting and folding method and then pasted in the manual.

Overall, it was a wonderful learning experience for the students. Students are given to verify the same property for pentagon , hexagon.

SCIENCE

CLASS VI

Aim : To show that handspan is not a standard unit to measure length. This activity was conducted in class VI with the help of a table or desk and ruler . Three students measured the length and breadth of a table with their handspan and then with the help of a ruler. Measurement with handspan were not equal. Students came to know that handspan is not a standard unit to measure length, So the standard unit of measurement is metre not handspan

CLASS VII

Aim : To study the conditions necessary for rusting. This activity was conducted in class VII with the help of iron nails, water and beaker . The students dipped the iron nails in water for two or three days . A reddish brown flaky layer deposited on iron nails and this layer is known as rust. After this activity students came to know that when iron articles were exposed to air having moisture they get rusted. Students participated pro actively in class.
